If you are familiar with speed skating, you may have seen short-track competitions like the one below. In short-track racing, skaters compete on a track about the size of a hockey rink. In this short race, there are four skaters in each heat.

1. What happens if a skater going in a straight line falls?
2. What happens if a skater falls in the middle of a turn?
3. Is it easier to walk on ice or asphalt? Why?
